Thailand Programs & Freedom - The Freedom Story was born from a documentary film called "The Sold Project". When our founder Rachel Sparks learned about child sexual exploitation in Thailand, she decided to expose it through the power of film. After interviewing dozens of sex workers, common themes became apparent poverty, a lack of education, and a lack of options. Rachel responded by providing a scholarship to an at-risk student, and thus the Freedom Story was born. Our scholarships and resources empower at-risk Thai students to stay in school, pursue their dreams, and break the cycle of poverty and exploitation. Our efforts in the US are centered around raising funds to make this empowerment possible and tell dignifying stories. In 2018, we provided scholarships to 95 students. 27 scholarship students graduated from various school levels: Middle school, High school, University. Resources at our Pong Prae and Chiang Rai resource centers have been accessed over 4,800 times. 419 students, 1,991 parents, NGO, school and government staff have gone through our awareness and human rights training. 270 students came to our English camp to gain exposure to and learn to speak some English. 65 students participated in our online sexual exploitation awareness workshop. 45 students participated in our anti-drug campaign run with local police. At least 90 students
